

Key Program Details for

Basic Hygiene and Food Handling

Overview

This nationally accredited training course has two objectives:

- To provide all food handling staff with the necessary skills and knowledge in food hygiene and food safety
- To reinforce the requirements all food handlers have under the FSANZ Food Standards Code

It is tailored for all employees involved in food handling and is suitable for staff working both within and outside the kitchen.

Course Outline

The course covers all the fundamental issues employee's need to be aware of whilst handling food and provides an overview of the FSANZ Food Standards Code and what each individual's responsibilities are within it.

This includes:

- Personal hygiene and hand washing
- Safe food handling and food storage principles
- The causes of food poisoning
- Temperature control and the 2 hour / 4 hour rule
- Preventing cross contamination
- Cleaning and sanitation
- What does the Government require?

This nationally accredited training is aligned to the following competency unit from the Food Processing training package:

- FBPF SY1002 Follow work procedures to maintain food safety

The training includes an excellent video on food hygiene fundamentals and can be tailored to incorporate the specific work instructions, forms and check sheets that are used in your organisation. In addition, each participant receives a workbook during the workshop that can become a handy reference guide for future use.

The training session runs for 4 hours, is scheduled around work rosters and will accommodate up to 15 participants in the one session – making it much more convenient and cost effective.

Venue: The training is conducted on-site at your workplace

Resources: We provide all resources and equipment to conduct the workshop. No special clothing is required.

Training Assessment

A short assessment is conducted to confirm each student's competency and a Certificate forwarded on successful completion.

Our Fee

Is $ 660 for up to 15 participants including GST and pro-rata for any additional participant's.

Should you prefer a non-accredited version of this training, this can readily be provided.
